

KEEP JOBS IN CANADA

IF YOU MAKE YOUR PROFITS IN CANADA, SHOULDN'T YOU BE HIRING PEOPLE IN CANADA?

We represent the everyday Canadian, and we are here to bring back Canadian jobs to where they belong. Fact is, we are facing one of the worst unemployment rates in Canadian history, and what are the corporations doing in response? Moving more jobs offshore.

We created the National Unemployment Clock in hopes of inspiring Canadians to support our cause. On May 6, the clock was unveiled in Ottawa, Ontario and has since travelled west across Canada through both major and small cities. The goal is twofold: to raise awareness of the dangers of moving jobs offshore, and give the everyday Canadian a voice by providing them with a petition that encourages Parliament to stop blatant and harmful offshoring practices.

Our story is intense, personal, and inspiring. We have collected thousands of signatures, listened to hundreds of anecdotes, and motivated the public. Now it's your turn to show your support.

WHY YOU NEED TO GET INVOLVED

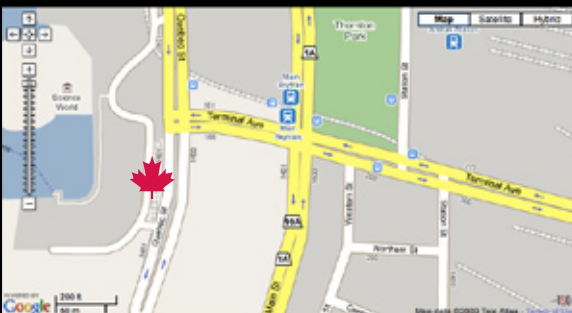

The unemployment situation in Canada is a topic that affects every Canadian. Just consider these facts: between October 2008 and March 2009 an astounding 567,400 people lost their jobs. Not surprisingly, since that time period the number of individuals receiving unemployment claims has increased 36.2%! These observations are not limited to any one province either.

And when corporations not only practice, but also promote and facilitate, the offshoring of legitimate Canadian jobs, the general public has less opportunity. By not working to resolve this problem, Parliament is placing a burden on government spending, consumer confidence, and the well-being of all Canadians.

WHAT CAN YOU DO?

It is time for politicians to work together to find a way to reduce unemployment and provide more prosperous opportunities to Canadians. This is an issue that should not remain unresolved or unsupported due to political party affiliation.

On June 10 at 11:00 am, we are unveiling the National Unemployment Clock near the corner of Quebec and Terminal in Vancouver, B.C. By attending this event and signing our petition, you will be showing your support for Keeping Jobs In Canada and working towards bettering the lives of your constituents and all Canadians.

WE NEED TO SEE YOU THERE!
